Executive Director Message

As a matter of fact, crime does pay...

We received some good feedback on my call for comments regarding the installation of webcams at Killearn Estates entrances. All the comments were cautiously positive. Most of the questions were regarding the legality of webcams in general. In fact, the Supreme Court has taken the general approach that what a person knowingly exposes to the public is not constitutionally protected. So while we are still some distance away from actually installing cameras at our entrances, it does seem to be one reasonable mechanism we can use to reduce crime in our community. In fact, it's perhaps not so much the webcam's themselves, it's more the optics of having webcams.

Because we've been hearing some interesting stories from around the community. We are tracking the activities of a white single cab pick-up truck, a red Sebring, and a red Econoline van with a faint "M" on the side. Both of these vehicles may have been involved in suspicious activity. Killearn Estates has a "no solicitation" policy, but we can't really enforce this because technically our roads belong to the city. So we encourage our homeowners not to open your doors to unknown solicitors. If someone in your neighborhood looks suspicious to you, don't be embarrassed to make a quick call to the Tallahassee Police Department at (850) 606-1500. This is not an emergency line, but they do have the capability to respond to pretty much anything.

We also continue to have many complaints about speeding. This is more of a social problem - certainly not restricted to our community. Everyone in our office has some crazy story about almost being hit while driving on Killarney Way - or excessive tailgating / honking - aggressive drivers. I've identified eight points in our community where there seems to be chronic speeding (based on homeowner complaints). We've engaged TPD repeatedly on this - and they've responded by parking cruisers around the community during rush hour and handing out tickets. But they can't be everywhere. So here in the office, we've been talking about several countermeasures. For example, I've been looking at buying a radar-driven flashing-light speed limit sign that we can move around the community.

I've also been working on new speed-reducing signs we're looking to install around the community. In fact, there are very strict regulations about signage along the roads - but we've been negotiating a workaround with the city - where we'll pay extra to have neighborhood-specific signs placed strategically. And then below this sign - on the same pole - we'll mount our kid-friendly speed limit signs.

Meanwhile, I'd like to encourage all residents to take pictures when you see speeding vehicles. Just the act of taking a picture of an aggressive driver may put them on notice. Reporting speeding cars to TPD is also very likely to raise Killearn Estates on TPD's priority list. The squeaky wheel gets the oil. Call and complain!

Tallahassee Police Department comes to every KHA Board meeting, and they come to listen, as well as to highlight some additional services TPD offers to residents:

Extra Patrol/House/Business Check

The Tallahassee Police Department is pleased to offer a Extra Patrol/House/Business Check on your property during a vacation or any period of time you may be away from the premises. Simply complete and submit the form online at <http://www.talgov.com/publicsafety/tpd-property-check.aspx>

Have a Home Security Assessment

TPD offers free residential security surveys to help prevent break-ins. An officer will be dispatched to walk around and through your home to help you think about how to protect yourself from potential burglaries. Call (850) 891-4200 for more information.

Citizen Observer Ride Along

Complete an application and you participate in the Citizen Observer Ride-along Program. This is designed to help citizens become familiar with the activities of TPD patrol officers - and it's really a fascinating way to spend a few hours! Ride-along appointments can be scheduled through the TPD Watch Commander's Office at (850) 891-4200. 🍀

President's Message

As I drive in Killearn I hear the familiar sound of chainsaws taking down our trees. Please remember that the removal of trees requires the approval of our Architectural Control Committee. A new request form for this purpose has been added to our website (www.killearn.org/architectural-control-committee). Please help us keep Killearn beautiful 🍀

- David Ferguson

What does it mean that Killlearn Estates is a deed restricted community?

A deed-restricted community is a neighborhood with governing documents that establish certain rules and regulations regarding the decorum of a neighborhood, as well as property uses. The goal of this type of community is to promote a fluid look and feel throughout a neighborhood, which in turn helps maintain home values. The policies that make up these governing documents also allow for oversight and enforcement by the Homeowners Association (HOA).

Many Florida neighborhoods are governed by deed restrictions, but every HOA community is different with regards to rules and regulations. Some HOAs exercise far more control over neighborhoods than others. Some allow pretty much anything to happen, while some restrict the color of each house and the style of the mailbox.

Homes in HOA communities tend to hold their value better over the long term, because the overall maintenance of the neighborhood remains in better condition. Buyers find this appealing because most people prefer a neighborhood that looks cared for, as opposed to one that appears run down.

Of course, the appearance of your neighbor's house will play a role when it comes time to sell your home. But when living in an HOA community, this kind of issue should be rare.

There may be times when your neighbors may break the rules, and we have a "Neighborhood Concern Form" to address this (available on our website). In Killlearn Estates, there are some common restrictions you should keep in mind:

Signs

The only acceptable signs on your property are For Sale/Rent/Lease. This excludes any other sign on the property or right-of-way.

Nuisance Activities

Offensive activity or general annoyance to the neighborhood is prohibited. Those things that tend to damage or destroy either private or public property present a clear violation.

Minimum Housing Standards

All siding, shingles, fences, decks/porches, doors, windows, shutters, mailboxes - and any other exterior parts of residential structures - must be maintained. They should be water-tight, rodent-proof, and in good repair.

Yard Maintenance

Property owners are responsible for their yard's general appearance, which includes trees, shrubs, ground cover, and grass. This also includes removal of debris or large branches on the ground.

Open Storage

Generally any equipment or materials that are not typically used outdoors should not be stored outdoors. Piles of bricks, wood, mulch, paving stones etc. must not be visible from any street. These rules extend to bridle trails, easements, lake edges, and Golf Club property that might be adjacent to your property. Trash should not be placed at the curb until the day before scheduled pick-up.

Vehicles

Inoperable or unregistered vehicles are not allowed to be seen from the road. Campers, motor homes, boats, trailers and hobby cars cannot be stored unless appropriately hidden so as not to be seen from any street. Parking on the lawn/grass is not appropriate without ACC approval.

Temporary Structures

Whether it's a tent, shack, garage or shed, no outbuildings are allowed (except during construction that has been approved by the Architectural Control Committee). No dumpster/trash or temporary storage (for example, "PODS") can occupy space on any property or street for more than 30 days. 🍀

Not a Lily but a Lotus

American lotus – Nelumbo lutea

Lake Kanturk is full of what is commonly thought of as water lilies. In fact, the Nelumbo lutea is a beautiful species of flowering plant in the family Nelumbonaceae. Common names include American Lotus, Yellow Lotus, Water-Chinquapin, and Volée. It is native to North America. Some Native Americans call this plant “Macoupin.” Its leaves are erect, extending above the water or floating on the surface.

American Lotus can be found in muddy, shallow waters, such as lake margins; or in water as deep as six feet. The leaves are covered with microscopic hairs which repel water very effectively. Watching a drop of water roll across its surface is impressive. American Lotus grows throughout Florida, and it flowers from May through August. It was apparently distributed northwards in the United States by Native Americans who carried the plant with them as a food source. This plant has a large edible tuber. The seed is also edible and is commonly known as “alligator corn”.

Disney’s character Princess Tiana wears, as her iconic princess dress, a gown fashioned from a Yellow American Lotus and is associated with the lotus in Greek mythology; the lotus-eaters (Greek: λωτοφάγοι, lōtophagoi) were a race of people living on an island dominated by lotus plants. The lotus fruits and flowers were the primary food of the island and were also a narcotic, causing the inhabitants to sleep in peaceful apathy. These are similar, but not the same as our native American Lotus.

This aquatic plant is very easy to identify. Its flowers, seed pods, and leaves are quite distinctive. Its flowers are very large: up to 6 inches wide. The flowers are luminescent yellow, with many petals and stamens. The leaves are circular. They are easily distinguished from other circular-leaf plants. Other plants, such as the fragrant water lily, all have leaves that are cut. American Lotus leaves, though, are not cut at all. American Lotus leaves are on long, stiff stalks. The stalks connect to the leaf at the very center of the leaf, umbrella-like. Whether they know it or not, many people are already familiar with American Lotus seed pods. They can be bought at grocery stores and flower shops in flower arrangements. This hard, flat-topped, cone-shaped fruit contains many large brown seeds. 🍀

White Pelicans Grace Us with Their Presence

The small fish in our lakes aren't so happy about it, but the white pelicans find them quite delicious! These large birds, deemed by the Audubon Society as “birds like Hercules aircraft” leave our lakes during the summer to go north for breeding in Canada and the Dakotas. They come back to our lakes since late November. According to Dr. Emily Duval - an Associate Professor in the Department of Biological Science at Florida State University - they peak in January and stay through June. The wingspan of these artful creatures can be up to nine feet - and they can measure between 55 to 70 inches in height. They soar on updrafts and often engage in aerial play to the delight of their human observers. They fish in groups and nest in colonies on islands, and they live up to 25 years. We are happy to have them as guests in our lakes, even if it's only for a portion of the year. 🍀

TALLAHASSEE'S "URBAN FOREST" MASTER PLAN

The City of Tallahassee is developing a comprehensive plan for what is being called our "urban forest." Trees are a defining feature of Tallahassee and they offer numerous benefits that increase the quality of our lives in many ways. They provide nesting areas for birds and animals. They provide shade for our yards and homes. They provide cover for our recreational activities. They also help to clean the air while providing aesthetic appeal and value to the community. In Florida - a state that has more trees than any other state besides Hawaii, it's amazing that north Florida has over fifty percent of Florida's trees!

Using a combination of high-resolution satellite imagery and on-the-ground field surveys, a detailed analysis was recently performed on Tallahassee's urban tree canopy.

According to the Urban Tree Canopy Analysis, canopy coverage (55 percent) in Tallahassee is the highest in the nation when compared to cities of comparable size. Impervious surfaces (such as buildings and pavement) were measured at 17 percent, leaving 28 percent of land coverage made up of grass areas, open water, and bare soil.

Having a vibrant, healthy urban forest is not just about quantity though. The quality and diversity of our trees help to determine whether we can experience the full benefits of our trees.

Additional analyses are currently being performed under the banner of the Tallahassee Urban Forest Master Plan, including potential canopy coverage, canopy distribution (how our tree cover is distributed throughout the city) and priority planting areas.

The City is working with the Davey Resource Group to define actionable steps that will enhance and improve the quality of our urban forest, while ensuring that we are being proactive in tree management, so that future generations of residents can enjoy the benefits of our trees.

In addition to the Urban Tree Canopy Analysis, the City will be evaluating policies, programs, and management techniques to create a vision for our urban forest, along with an implementable roadmap for achieving short and long-term urban forestry goals.

An important step in determining what's best for our urban forest is to identify the community's priorities in regards to trees. The City is looking for our input on how to create a playbook that will guide decisions, programs, and policies to help manage our urban forest - on both public and private lands. Tallahassee's Urban Forest Master Plan will only be as good as the information used in its creation and our collective commitment to implement it.

You can be important in making this effort successful. Public meetings will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. on March 27 at the Jack L. McLean Community Center and 6 to 8 p.m. on March 28 at the Renaissance Center in Frenchtown. You are encouraged to attend the meeting most convenient for you.

Meeting Date	Location	Address
Tuesday, March 27, 6 - 8 pm Free Registration, Please RSVP	Jack L. McLean Community Center	700 Paul Russel Road Tallahassee, FL 32301
Wednesday, March 28, 6 - 8 pm Free Registration, Please RSVP	Frenchtown Renaissance Center Second Floor Conference Room	435 N. Macomb Street Tallahassee, FL 32301

April in the garden

*This month's gardening information is provided by Tallahassee Nurseries.
Celebrating being rooted in Tallahassee for 80 years.*

April is our favorite month in the garden. Every way you turn, there's a new color or variety blooming whether it's a bedding plant, tree, or shrub! Let's review what you should be on the lookout for within the next weeks!

Planting

It's time to start planing your warm season annuals and perennials! A popular saying at our nursery when deciding on what plants to purchase is putting the, "right plant in the right place". There are hundreds of annuals and perennials to choose from this time of the year so be sure to know the amount of sun or shade in a given area before you decide.

Bedding Color

Plant annuals to give your spring bed(s) instant bold color.
Sunny areas: celosia, geraniums, alyssum, salvia, hibiscus.
Landscape areas: marigolds, pentas, zinnias, vinca.
Shady areas: begonias, coleus, torenia, caladiums.

Perennials which perform well in our area to plant now, of many, include agapanthus, coreopsis, hostas, coneflowers, Black eyed susan, verbena, plumbago, daylilies and Louisiana iris. Don't forget your fertilizer to keep the color coming all season long!

Lawn Care

Apply fertilizer after new lawn growth has started and greened up—usually this happens in mid-April. Use 15-0-15 slow release fertilizer. Always follow with good water and mowing practices.

Veggies & Herbs

Veggie gardening in spring can often come down to what your personal preferences are because there are so many fun and tasty varieties to plant.

It's not too late if you haven't already planted your summer veggies such as, peppers, beans, eggplant, okra, or sweet potatoes. Now is a great time to start or grow your herb garden with all different kinds of mints, basil, etc are available at this point in the season.

Organic fertilizer for your veggies and herbs are always a welcomed notion for these new plants.

Trees & Shrubs

With this year's cool weather, you should be noticing your trees and shrubs thriving with spring blooms. If you haven't already, now is still a good time to fertilize your trees and shrubs using a good organic fertilizer following the directions on the back of the bag.

Don't worry! In Spring the older leaves on camellias, magnolias and other evergreens like gardenias start to yellow and fall. They will be followed by new growth but be sure to keep them well mulched and watered.

Yard Sale

KILLEARN ESTATES SEMI-ANNUAL NEIGHBORHOOD YARD SALE APRIL 7TH 8AM TO NOON

The Killlearn Homes Association is sponsoring a neighborhood-wide yard sale on April 7th. This is your opportunity to sell all the items you no longer want or need. Just twice a year, we allow Yard Sale signs in your yard; all we ask is that you don't put them up until Friday evening and take them down after the event on Saturday. We plan this event twice a year so that a majority of the residents wait until the community-wide event, thereby cutting down on the number of signs that seem to sprout up on the weekends.

The Association will advertise the event on social media on several yard sale sites, and on Craigslist, which will draw many into the neighborhood that monitor these sites. So, gather those unwanted items you'd like to get rid of and earn some extra cash. Anything that you have left over, or anything you would like to donate can go to The Living Harvest Thrift Store (850-765-6285), which is located at 4500 West Shannon Lakes Drive in the Four Oaks Center and they accept donations anytime.
